The Tribune.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1884.

The next meeting of the Wellington teachers' institute was addressed by Principal Grant of Queen's College who referred to the school system of Scotland which he considered one of the best in the world. That system was founded by John Knox whose object was the combination of the religious element with ordinary instruction. It must be conceded that few men have done so much for the cause of education as the Scottish reformer, who anticipated many of the reforms which are supposed to be of modern growth. He saw clearly the power for good which a common school system could supply, and therefore urged the planting of a school in every parish, a grammar school in every town, and a college or university in every city. Scotland has good reason to be grateful for what he then accomplished. Long before the other portions of the United Kingdom or even before Germany had adopted a general system of public schools, education was generally diffused among all classes of the Scottish people. To this, more than to anything else, may be attributed that Scottish ascendancy which is not unknown even in Canada.

Land, with all the disadvantages of soil and climate, has taken a position among the countries of the world which may well excite admiration. In material wealth it is asserted by statisticians, that she ranks first, the value of property, estimated per capita, being greater than that of either England or the United States. That proud position is chiefly due to her excellent parish schools and the thorough character of the education imparted in those institutions. The learned Principal thought a great advantage in the Scottish system arose from the fact that teachers remained so long in the one place, generally for life or during good behavior. This, he thought, was where a want was shown in the Ontario system of education, and he afterwards proceeded to criticize the educational department for making too many changes, not giving sufficient time to test regulations which they have made. There appears to be too much foundation for these remarks. Teachers are too frequently on the wing, too often compelled to leave a district at the caprice of some petty tyrant. Hence the necessity of some regulations in the school act ensuring an engagement for a longer term than the present act allows. That there is too much tinkering of the school act is generally acknowledged. Educationists, more than other men, are prone to ride hobbies, and in consequence inspectors and other administrators of the school law too frequently succeed in getting their theories enforced. A short period of trial proves many of them impracticable and another experiment soon follows. From this possibility arises many of the defects of our provincial system, and the superficial character of the education too frequently to be met in many of the schools. With a practical man, such as the present Minister, at the head of the department, it is but reasonable to expect that many of these defects must disappear, and that visionary enthusiasts will no longer be permitted to impose their crude theories on long suffering teachers and an impatient public.

Presentation.

The members of the staff of the Big Store and a number of invited guests assembled at the Ferguson House on Saturday evening, the object of the meeting being to do honor to Mr. James Donahue on the eve of his departure to England. The company having partaken of a bounteous repast served in excellent style, and indulged in some pleasant conversation, Alex. McLaughlin, Esq., proceeded to read the following interesting address:

To the Hon. Donahue.

DEAR SIR.—We, the undersigned members of the staff of the Big Store, having learned of your intention to sever your connection with the establishment, cannot allow the opportunity to pass without expressing the deep regret which we experience at the prospect of your proposed withdrawal. While proving yourself faithful to the interests of your employers, you have at the same time invariably acted with civility and attention to the numerous customers with whom you daily came into contact, and thus succeeded in gaining general favor. It affords us pleasure to state that your relations with ourselves have always been of the most pleasing and cordial character, and we gladly testify to your readiness to give your counsel and assistance whenever occasion may have demanded them.

We ask you, therefore, to accept this signet ring as a slight memento of our regard, hoping that it will be a source of satisfaction to you, to know that you have gained our respect and esteem. Finally we unite in expressing the hope that your contemplated visit to the mother country may prove instrumental in restoring your impaired health, and that both you and your amiable partner in life may have a pleasant voyage and all health and prosperity wherever your lot may in the future be cast.

Mr. Donahue was completely taken by surprise, but recovering his self possession he proceeded in a happy manner to thank them for the handsome and valuable present as well as for the kindly expressions of esteem and good will conveyed to him in the address. A pleasant time followed, speeches being delivered by Mr. Richardson, manager of the Big Store, Chief Green, and Messrs. Stoddart, Knowles and N. Conley. Mr. Donahue left the same night for Brockville where Mr. Donahue has been spending a few days, and both will sail for England by the Allan Steamer leaving Quebec to-morrow. A host of friends in Deseronto unite in wishing them bon voyage.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1884.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Egar is going to erect a line fence, this bathing season has commenced. Buy your daily papers at THE TRIBUNE office.

A "green grocer"—one who does not advertise.

The Utica will in future run between Napanee and Picton.

The members of the canoe club were out in force on Saturday evening.

The track on the Thousand Islands railway is now pronounced first-class, in fact a model road.

There are still a few cheap publications left at THE TRIBUNE office, notwithstanding the run of the past few weeks.

EVERY man is born with a mentor. That's his conscience. When he gets older he often gets a tormentor. That's his wife.

A LARGE party will go down to Napanee this evening to attend the "Odeffellows" concert which promises to be a grand success.

SHANNONVILLE will have a first-class concert to-morrow evening (Friday). Tickets are only 15 cents and there will, no doubt, be a large attendance.

BIG CURE—1862 legs were cut at the Big Mill on Thursday 29th ult., and yet there is a disposition to surpass that big amount some of these days.

THERE was a vestry meeting of St. Mark's church last Thursday evening, which was well attended and at which much important business was satisfactorily transacted.

THERE was a rush to the treasurer last Saturday for the tags which are found indispensable to prevent dogs being converted into sausage meat by our indefatigable Chief of police.

CRUSHED.—Mr. James Stokes, of the steamboat and railway traffic department, had his foot rather severely crushed while attending to some duties at the steamboat dock on Tuesday.

POLICE COURT.—Thomas Rush was arrested last week by the Chief for using abusive language to Mrs. Charles Norton. The Reeve, having first administered a caution, allowed him to depart.

WORK on Capt. Garrett's new steamer is progressing with wonderful rapidity, the planking being completed and other work advancing in proportion. The yacht "North" is also being fitted out in first class style.

BAPTIST SERVICE.—The evangelists will administer the rite of baptism in the bay at some point in the vicinity of the village, next Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. The public are invited to be present on the occasion.

THE Ontario bureau of industries is sending out circulars to the farmers of the Province to procure information for the third annual report. Farmers will greatly assist by carefully filling up the schedules, all information given being considered confidential.

TIMELY IMPROVEMENT.—The boardwalk in front of the "big store" and thence easterly to the Deseronto House has been undergoing repairs, the old boards having been removed and new ones placed in position by Mr. Wm. Stewart, corporation contractor.

UNION SERVICE.—Rev. J. C. Ash, being unavoidably prevented from fulfilling his appointment in Deseronto last Sunday evening, his people joined in a union service with the congregation of the Church of the Redeemer, the Rev. R. J. Craig preaching a public sermon on temperance to the large audience which filled the church.

THE ADOLPHUSTOWN DEMONSTRATION.—Everything indicates that the coming U. E. L. Demonstration at Adolphustown will be a grand success. The committee are meeting with great encouragement and every accommodation has been provided for the host of visitors. It is now understood that the Governor General will be present and this will add greatly to the pleasure anticipated by all who intend being present.

The Court of Revision meets on the 16th inst.

REMEMBER that you can secure THE TRIBUNE for the remainder of the year for fifty cents.

This frost last week nipped the leaves and other vegetables in Mr. Brown's pretty garden at the junction.

It may not generally be believed, but there are actually a few residents of Deseronto who have not yet subscribed for THE TRIBUNE.

SKIPPED.—A boarder at Baptiste Shandrew's skipped out the other day with a suit of clothes and watch belonging to young Shandrew.

DANIEL'S BAND.—The entertainment given last week by Daniel's Band was a complete success, pronounced superior to any before given by that society.

THE Methodist congregation are already beginning to talk about the erection or purchase of a parsonage, a want which they will do well to supply as soon as possible.

FLOWER torrance on Dundas Street is beginning to assume its tasty and attractive appearance, and will probably soon show to better advantage than it even did last year.

EARLY DEATH.—The friends of Miss Hettie Maclean, niece of Mrs. W. G. Egar, who visited Deseronto not long ago, will learn with deepest regret of her sudden death, last Saturday, at her home in St. Mary's.

STILL ANOTHER.—On Tuesday forenoon Mr. E. Maston had portions of two fingers cut off and two others injured by a saw in the factory. He was immediately attended by Dr. Clifton who dressed the wounded hand.

SPORTSMEN.—Messrs A. A. Richardson and J. M. Poiras took advantage of a trip over the bay last week to indulge their sporting proclivities. They had a good time and there is one chipmunk the less as a result of their outing.

CHURCH NOTICE.—Rev J. C. Ash will preach his last service before conference, in the Brick Church next Sabbath evening (June 8th). It is also expected that Rev. Mr. McQuade will be present and take part in the services.

GRAND EXCURSION.—The members of Craig Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will give an excursion on Dominion Day to Massassaga point by steam. The boat will leave Deseronto at 8 a. m. Tickets are placed at 50 cts., children under care of parents, half price.

ATTENTION has frequently been drawn to the disgraceful and dangerous condition of the crossings at Egar's corner. It seems that the Council is only responsible for one of these, the other having been cut up and left in its present state by our local dynamiters the gasworks employees.

The change of weather has caused a rush for Geddies restaurant where delicious ice-creams are being consumed night and day by an immense army of customers. Geddies also keeps a good stock of confectionery, rich fresh butter and choice groceries. Don't forget to give him a call.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.—The evangelists will pitch their Gospel Tent in Deseronto next Saturday afternoon. Services will be held next Sunday at 3 p. m. and 7 p. m., and at 7.30 o'clock during every evening of the week. They extend a hearty welcome to all who may desire to attend these services.

PRAISEWORTHY.—Some fine specimens of bread of her own unaided manufacture have been distributed by a young lady of the village among a few friends. Such exhibitions of proficiency in this important branch of culinary science are certainly sufficient to entitle any young lady to be considered a fit candidate for matrimony.

AN OLD FRIEND.—We observe by the Guelph Herald that our old friend Mr. John Hardman has been distinguished himself in a recent performance given by the Amateur Dramatic Club of the Royal City. The Herald states that in the farce "Done on both Sides" the part of Euphrosyne Philhela was played by Mr. J. Hardman who did exceedingly well.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.—The Messrs Carter are hurrying their new shops to completion and the large brick building which Mr. Greatrix is erecting on Mill St. is rapidly progressing. Mr. John McCullough has completely changed the appearance of his new purchase on St. George Street, few residents in the village presenting a more neat and tasty appearance. Mr. Wm. Irvine has taken the contract for erecting a handsome residence for Rev. T. Stanton, near St. Mark's Church. W. R. Aylsworth Esq. is building a large barn and Mr. Jamieson of the Empress has put up a substantial fence around his property, but we must reserve others for next issue.

READ our advertising columns very carefully this week.

The steam ferry boat Prince Edward was burned at Belleville yesterday. Insured for $5000.

The Board of Health is now organized and ready to hear complaints and inspect premises. Prepare for an immediate inspection.

DR. G. W. FAULKNER was elected Warden of Hastings on Tuesday. The vote stood 14 to 14, but the chairman gave his casting vote for Faulkner.

NOTICE.—Remember the excursion on Saturday evening. The Quinte leaves the dock at 7.30 sharp for Belleville returning the same evening. Music on board and a pleasant time guaranteed.

VERY NEAT.—Mr. John Smith, who has recently erected a handsome cottage on Main Street east, has made a new departure and painted it a delicate and novel shade of colour, thus rendering it strikingly neat and attractive. Nothing like variety in this as in other matters.

PROMOTION.—Mr. Knowles, who has been connected with the "Big Store," for the past few months, will assume the management of the grocery department in that establishment. From his long experience in that line of business and courteous manners, we think he is "the right man in the right place."

STRAYED OR STOLEN.—A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Chas. Chambers, either strayed or was stolen from his field last Friday night. It is described as a bay Clyde gelding about sixteen hands high, having a white star on the forehead, and a little scar on the left shoulder. The party returning him will be suitably recompensed for his trouble.

THE EXCURSION.—Saturday the 14th of June is rapidly approaching, a fact which will be generally admitted. On that date the Ladies Aid Society of St. Mark's Church give their moonlight excursion to that delectable spot the Lake on the Mountain. Ice cream and strawberries and other inducements too numerous to mention are held out to all who attend. Music will be provided. Secure your tickets early at Egar's and Donoghue Bros'.

DOMINION DAY.—Pursuant to notice a public meeting was convened in the town hall last Friday evening to consider the propriety of a public demonstration on Dominion Day. There was a good attendance of citizens. Mr. R. N. Irvine was called to the chair and Mr. James Cameron appointed Secretary. After discussion the following committee were appointed to make arrangements for a celebration, viz.: Messrs J. Hoppes, Dr. Newton, A. A. Barr, D. R. McRae, and James Cameron, with H. R. Bedford as Secy and S. Russell, Treas. One motion Dr. Newton was asked to urge the council to pass a by law compelling outside traders to pay a license fee of 25 dollars on that day. The Committee was subsequently organized with Dr. Newton as chairman, and subscription lists were at once ordered to be put in circulation. The subscription list is already quite large and it is hoped that in order to make the demonstration worthy of Deseronto all citizens will contribute liberally, as upon the amount raised will depend the character which the demonstration will assume.

We enjoyed the pleasure of a visit to Trenton the other day and found it a growing and prosperous town, well protected and with most beautiful environments. The view from the mountain commanding the town, bay, and surrounding country is especially interesting. It is a pity that the railway was allowed to draw on this hill for its supply of gravel as much of its beauty has been thus destroyed. The town has now obtained a deed of the property and it is understood that further encroachments will be prevented.

The high school and several of the churches are commodious and handsome structures, while the immense mills of the Messrs. Gilmore afford an endless amount of interesting study to the visitor. There appears to be some lack of public spirit however in many respects. A good system of drainage and sanitation is evidently lacking, and many residences evidence a lack of paint and other adornment, a state of affairs not in keeping with a town of its importance. The unpainted bridge over the Trent is an unsightly structure, and its unsavory interior sadly requires to be cleansed which could be accomplished easily by getting the fire brigade to turn the hose on for two or three days at least. With its unrivalled position and immense water power, an ordinary amount of enterprise, and two spy journals to keep its people alive to their duties, there is nothing to prevent Trenton taking a prominent position among the towns of Canada.

FIRE APPARATUS.—A thorough test of the new automatic fire extinguishing apparatus lately introduced into the saw factory was made on Monday evening. In forty seconds the amalgam was melted, and in one minute and twenty seconds the fire was completely extinguished.

As we go to press we learn that the subscription list for the Dominion day celebration is rapidly swelling to large proportions. Several gentlemen have greatly increased their subscriptions. The Knights of Labor, of Belleville, and friends, forming a party 600 strong are expected to be present on the occasion. The committee are negotiating for bands, fireworks and various attractions. A big excursion party from Tamworth over the N. T. & Q. is also within the range of possibility.

The Stock of Boots & shoes at the Big Store comprises all classes of Peg, Sewed & cable Screw-wire boots, Hand Sewn boots English and American styles, Cordovan and Dongola Boots and Shoes in half sizes all made of solid leather and for style durability and comfort are unsurpassed.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.
FROM THE SON: "25 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 25, 1882."
"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the enclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor (as it is called) at least to a serious degree on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few drops he was rapidly cured. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity. Many who begin using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly,
W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely cured with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and insupportable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the Sarsaparilla in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882.
Yours faithfully,
HILMAN PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA Cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints. Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworms, Blisters, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, disposes of them, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, JUNE 12, 1884

CONTRARY to general expectation, the Republican Convention at Chicago, instead of pursuing the ordinary course and choosing some comparatively unknown man, have nominated James G. Blaine as the Presidential candidate. Mr. John A. Logan was nominated for the Vice-Presidency. On the first ball it was decided that Mr. Blaine's strength was much greater than had been anticipated. His following continued to increase until at the fourth ballot he had a large majority of the votes. Mr. Blaine is undoubtedly one of the most brilliant leaders of the Republican party in the United States. He has been for a long period in public life and on two former occasions was an unsuccessful candidate for nomination. As a speaker, writer, organizer, he has probably no superior, and although he claims that the office was unsought, there is little doubt that it is to his skill in these respects that his success is chiefly due. During the past few years he has been in comparative retirement, engaged in literary pursuits and holding himself aloof from the strife of political parties. He finds himself now rewarded for this studied abstention which has most effectually diverted the attention of the people from his ill-judged policy as President Garfield's Secretary of State. The nomination does not appear to meet with the general approval of his party, if we are to judge by the defections of several important journals who refuse to support his candidature. We presume, however, that when the party whip is applied they will accept the position and gradually fall into line. The action of the approaching Democratic convention will now be impatiently awaited. Their chances of success now depend on the selection of a candidate. Mr. Blaine has been accused in the part of having promoted certain schemes in Congress, which were of a doubtful character. He is not, therefore, personally above reproach, and it would seem that with a good candidate and a decided platform, the democracy might on this occasion enter on the struggle with favorable prospects of success.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

To the Editor of The Tribune.
DEAR SIR.—It is pleasant to mark the changes and improvements which have taken place during the past few years in Deseronto and also in other towns in your vicinity. Sixteen years ago I visited this locality, Deseronto, or Mill Point as it was then termed, was only a small cluster of houses sufficient to accommodate the few employees of the lumber mill which then constituted the business of the place. There was at that time no church edifice whatever; the only place for holding religious services was a small and not very inviting selection of limited capacity. Now you have churches for nearly all the denominations, and some of these edifices will compare favorably with those in many of our larger towns. This advance in church accommodation indicates largely the true religious growth of the place. There was not at that time with but one or two exceptions, any regularly laid out streets; only one small tavern; and in fact there was a general absence of all the conveniences of a village proper. Now you are not only well equipped in these respects but have also your own newspaper, which is an important factor in the progress of business and village enterprises. With this to give stimulus to business life, your advance doubtless will be far greater in the next decade and a half than it has even been in the past.
But while congratulating the residents on what has been accomplished in the past in making Deseronto what it is, I hope it will not be considered an incivility in a stranger who is accustomed to cleanly streets and thoroughfares, if allusion is made to the neglect shown by Deserontians pretty generally in this respect. The beauty of a place depends largely on the condition of its streets, the planting of shade trees, and the little frontage plot of grass. Such a neat exterior will make even a humble dwelling interesting, and has more to do in enhancing the beauty of the place than would a display of expensive architecture. The suggestion for improvements in these respects will not be construed in the part of a stranger. In the place of the writer's residence, these things are not left to the option of individual residents. The city ordinances compel cleanliness and even insist on the lawns lining the streets being cut monthly. The responsibility rests where it properly belongs—on the municipal authorities.
I had the pleasure, a day or two ago, of visiting the little adjacent town of Napanee, that great changes had been effected in sixteen years interval of time. The change was not quite so discernible as in Deseronto, proportions even at that time. I found the business streets, however, largely extended, the number and variety of private residences, and the beauty of the private residences. There was an air of business activity and growth which seemed to betoken great future. One pleasant feature of this locality is the beautiful water scenery and the favorable water and railway communication which cannot but ensure future prosperity. But I fear, Mr. Editor, that I am trespassing unduly on the columns of your paper so I hasten to subscribe myself
AN INTERESTED SWANAGER

Execution at Pictou.

Joseph Tompsett and George Louder, convicted of the murder of Peter Lester, suffered the extreme penalty of the law on Tuesday morning, instructions having been received from the Minister of Justice on the previous evening that the law must take its course. Both men having slept quietly all night, rose before 5 o'clock and prayed. They were shortly afterwards visited by the clergyman and then took breakfast, eating heartily. Tompsett stated to the War reporter whose account we follow, that he was innocent of the crime; that he knew nothing of the death, directly or indirectly, until he was arrested, that up to 10 o'clock that night he was at Louder's, that this was the truth as these were his dying words. He further stated that he felt happy and ready to meet death and that he forgave all who had said anything against him. Louder said that he knew nothing about the affair; that he was not present when the man was shot, and that he was a murderer at heart. He also said that he had written a few lines for the public. There was no use saying anything for the public would not believe him; he was at home at the time of the murder.
An immense crowd, incited by morbid curiosity, surrounded the spot, but only a few persons were admitted inside to witness the execution. At 7:25 o'clock the Sheriff and Mr. Locks entered the jail; the men prayed earnestly and long and then made the necessary preparations. At 7:50 o'clock the procession filed up stairs; hats were removed by spectators and the burial service read, the men standing side by side upon the trap. Both trembled visibly. The hangman adjusted the nooses and pinioned the convicts' legs. Being asked by the Sheriff if they had anything to say, Tompsett shoved up his black cap above his mouth but did not speak. Louder said that he had already said all he had to say, that he was ready to go to God, and then continued praying earnestly. Having bid each other good bye, the Sheriff struck the floor with his sword and with a great noise the trap dropped. The hangman had fearfully managed the affair for the ropes slipped in both cases and it was five minutes before Louder ceased struggling. Tompsett also struggled hard and kicked the pinions off his legs, and death only resulted after the expiration of fourteen minutes.
It is said that the hangman did the strangling out of revenge, as he had previously heard the prisoners express their opinion of him. There is a growing impression in Prince Edward that Louder was innocent of the crime and that he suffered on Tompsett's account. The statements to be published are the same in effect as those given above.

KINGSTON.

(From our own Correspondent.)

P. D. Gordon, the once popular purser of the Armistice on the through-by day line route, was in the city on Monday. P. D. is not changed.

Kingston is going to celebrate Dominion day. No one horse show but a sure enough celebration that will just make all previous ones crawl down the back stairs of oblivion. About $1200 (half money) has been gathered together and among the events mentioned is a hand tournament for a first class prize which will doubtless bring some talent into the city, horse races, lacrosse matches, base ball, physics, &c., a steeple.

Two little brothers, named O'Neill, playing with a revolver on Sunday morning, after the manner of let's play killing one another, the one pulled on the other, the ball having just above the left eye. The other brother tried to drown himself.

The K. & L. Railway are now through to Redwood on the northern section, and connection with Dunrobin will soon be accomplished.

Mr. Murphy's raft containing 1,400 pieces of railway ties for The Bathurst Company arrived in the city on Monday.

About half a million bushels of grain is in and on the way to Kingston.

We have been a little slack the past two weeks in showing up but then we have been prepping an article to discuss the celebration at Adolphustown at the U. E. L. celebration.

READ.

(From our own Correspondent.)

James Napkin, son of Dominick Napkin, of the 8th concession died in Toronto on 4th inst. The remains were brought home and buried in St. Charles Cemetery on the 6th inst.

Mr. Timothy Horrigan, of the 9th con., has a ewe that had five lambs this spring all living.

Some of our young sports had an impromptu horse race on the 3rd inst., the exciting event being between Mr. John Brennan's black horse and Mr. John Smith's bay horse "Viley." Three heats were to be run, but the two first being dead heats the sport ended. As horses came to the winning post in the second heat, Mr. Smith's "Viley" slipped and fell throwing his rider immediately the horse was on his legs, and his jockey was across the horse's back as he rose from the mother earth. Neither horse nor man was hurt, both were declared off, and bright anticipations raised for the Read summer race.

Mr. Patrick Tighe, proprietor of the East End blacksmith shop has his forge in full blast, and is ever ready to fill the orders of his patrons.

Last Sunday being Whitunday or the Feast of Pentecost, there was an immense congregation at St. Charles Catholic church. The mission of North Tyndinaga is a very large and populous parish. Since the advent of the esteemed and popular pastor, the Rev. Father Meade, a great many improvements have taken place in and around the church. The unsightly piles of stones and snake fence in front of the priest's house have been removed and a handsome painted fence put in their place. The residence has been improved, a nice railing having been placed around the verandah. A handsome holy water font has been placed in the church. A beautiful new lamp hung in the sanctuary, as well as other internal improvements. The Rev. Father Meade is ably seconded in all his undertakings by an active committee and a willing and generous people.

Mr. Daniel McCrea, of Londale road, contractor, and his men are pushing the work vigorously on the county road, and the work already done is a proof of the good road we will have when the contract is finished.

Mr. James Meade paid a flying visit to his uncle, the Rev. Father Meade, last week on his way to St. Paul's, Minn.

His Lordship Bishop Cleary, who has been expected here from Europe during the past month, has been detained owing to the death of his only sister, Mrs. Lylettan, at her residence in Limerick, Ireland, on the 14th ult. His Lordship has been the recipient of many sympathies and prayers of the faithful in the diocese in his and bereavement. It was expected that his lordship would sail for Canada on the 6th or 7th inst.

Mrs. James Walsh, of the 6th con., is the happy possessor of a duck that laid three eggs on Thursday 6th inst.

During the last week the weather has been extremely warm and dry. Everything is suffering from the want of rain. Not having had any rain since the first of Thursday week the results it is feared will be disastrous unless we have rain soon. However, notwithstanding the extreme dryness of the weather the crops are looking well and a little rain now would have millions in it for the country.

The Tribune is becoming very popular here and like all good things is in great demand.

MARKET PRICES.

Barley, 60 cts.; oats, 40 cts.; Butter, 16 cts.; eggs, 13 cts.; potatoes, 60 to 70 cts.; hay, $7 to $8.

Mr. J. C. Hanley, the Reeve, has returned home, having been in London at the County Council all week looking after the interests of Tyndinaga.

IN THREE CHAPTERS.—CHAPTER I.

[illegible]

All this greatly annoyed his rough bearers, who were well wiled with rum, and generally kept the game alive, until the bandolero, becoming jealous of the reputation of the hunter, turned him out of doors. From that time, the hunter's life was a never night a horrible murder was committed. The saint had sent her one servant to the market, and another to the quarter to eight, and returned at a quarter past, to find the poor old maid lying dead on the floor, while the cock cupboard was open, and the door ajar. The hunter, a young girl called in help; and one among the crowd that filled the house before the police arrived, was the nephew, who had been identified as the very one who committed the deed, whom he knew well, had exhibited in the afternoon at the public-house. In regard to the murder, the nephew made no request, and it was confirmed by many others who knew both the knife and its owner. A few days later, the nephew was taken away against the nephew, whom we will call John Lincoln, out who had disappeared mysteriously and entirely. Inquiries, advertisements, and all sorts of means, failed to bring him back.

IN THE BRIDLE-PATH.

Harvard O'Connell in Harper's Weekly.

They ride, they ride with slackered reins,
Facing the sinking sun,
And he is telling her over again
The tale that's as old as the bending blue,
And as old as the singing sea
And it never has happened that one of two Marveled what it could be.

It never has happened that one of two,
Blithe boy, glad girl together
Who have felt that to love was enough told
In the sweet and sunny weather
But have found right words for the song of sins
In the greenery overhead
For to build the nest in the spring is best,
And 'tis best in the spring to wed.

Oh, he rides at her bridle-rein,
And he bends him to her ear
While the music of the old refrain
That lingers in the air
That lingers in the air
And his words were pleasant as rain that satters

Low on the laughing leaves,
And kind as the cherry sun that flatters
The gold of harvest leaves.

And his hand it is on her bridle-rein,
And his look is on her cheek—
He needs not to tell her over again
Of the garden that he would seek—
But she, the telling 'twixt the smiling
Of the music of the old refrain
For no matter how long she sing love's song,
You can never come to its close!

Adolphustown Centennial.

The readers of THE TRIBUNE have long been familiarized with the early settlement of the Loyalists in the Bay district and with the landing of the little boat at Adol-phustown. It is pleasing to know that the demonstration of the past three days has been fairly successful. The preliminary to the proceedings the corner stone of the new Methodist Church was laid with appropriate ceremonies by Mrs. J. Allison, who is 80 years of age. From all parts of the adjoining country there came crowds of visitors on Monday morning to witness the laying of the foundation stone of the monument.

The proceedings of the day were commenced by the playing of the National Anthem, after which the Divine blessing was invoked on the day's activities. In the afternoon after a short address by Mr. Bogart, the venerable chairman of the Committee, Dr. Can-niff gave an interesting account winding up with the account of the day for the Canadians. The stone was then laid by R. W.
Bro. A. McGuinness, D. D. G. M. of the Masonic order, with the beautiful and impressive ceremonies of the initiation, prayer being offered by Worshipful Bro. Rev. R. J.
Craig, of Deseronto, as Grand Chaplain.

Alfred speeches were then delivered by Sir
Richard Cartwright and Rev. Mr. Lucas, who both paid a just tribute to the Loyalists. On Tuesday the number of visitors was much greater than on the previous day, all the steamers being fairly packed with living freight. The corner stone of the Memorial Church was laid by the Lieutenant Governor, the Hon. Mr. Dufferin, being aid by the Archbishop of Kingston assisted by several clergymen of the diocese. Happy addresses were subsequently delivered at the grand altar by his Honor the Lieutenant Governor and other distinguished visitors. Chief Amosetokah in his handsome and striking costume, the observed of all observers, delivered an oration abounding in interesting facts. Grand processions and sports completed the programme for that day. Yesterday concluded the corner stone ceremony, the principal feature of the proceedings being the procession in the costumes of 1783. Thousands have been attracted to Adolphustown to witness the day's activities. The celebration has been a day of which the future with better ideas of the heroic deeds of the U. E. Loyalists.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1884.

REFERENCE was made in last week's issue to a communication to the Belleville Intelligencer from its Deseronto correspondent, who expressed a pardonable curiosity to see the reports of the inspectors of schools submitted to the county council and which were stated to be highly satisfactory. As a resident of the village, and therefore acquainted with the existing state of school matters, he was particularly desirous to learn what the report contained in reference to the Deseronto schools, whose efficiency he had the hardihood to question. Elsewhere readers will find the inspector's reply and report in which they will learn to their utter surprise that the schools are in an excellent state of efficiency. They can now have a sigh of relief and rest content on that point. THE TRIBUNE had in its ignorance thought otherwise and ventured accordingly some time ago to make some severe strictures on the community and the education department for permitting things to remain as they were. With this official statement before our eyes an apology should be forthcoming to an offended public. But let us first recall a few facts in self defense. On December last the schools were publicly examined and on that occasion there were present in one department 96 pupils, the teacher stating that occasionally she had 117; in another department there were 67, and in a third 60. The teachers all asserted then, that in the crowded state of the rooms it was absolutely impossible for them to do their work. On March 28th the casual visitor would have found in the same departments 73, 78, and 115 pupils. From Jan. 1st to April 1st two of those departments averaged about 70 pupils each, and the other 104. The atmosphere of these ill ventilated rooms was stifling, the sitting accommodation altogether insufficient, and the teachers unanimous in their regrets at being unable to do efficient work under such unfavorable circumstances. Vain regrets; they have now the satisfaction to know that the schools are in an excellent state of efficiency. Few teachers have had such an excellent tribute paid to their zeal and ability. Now if the inspector is correct, it is quite obvious that it is high time for the department of education to revise its regulations. These, so we are informed, limit the number of pupils in each department, anything in excess of that number being supposed to impair the efficiency of the school. Those boards also which conform to these regulations are evidently extravagant in their ideas as they are paying two teachers to do work which may be efficiently performed by one. In only two many of our exchanges we have seen complaints of late concerning the decadence of the public schools. If the act is administered in other counties, as it appears to be in Hastings, there need be no surprise that such expressions of discontent should be manifested. The crowded, unhealthy condition of the public school in this village has been for a long period a scandal, and for all the educational department or its officials appear to have done in the way of effecting a remedy, such might have been the case until doomsday. In this particular case they actually pose as apologists for what others never yet attempted to defend. A previous discussion of this matter resulted we are pleased to say in one movement towards a remedy; let us hope that the present agitation may result in another effort on the part of the ratepayers of Deseronto to extricate themselves from the slough of despond in which, as far as regards educational matters, they have been allowed by an indifferent department to sink. Before closing this article we willingly testify to the active zeal of the teachers of the different departments who, in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, labor so earnestly to do their duty. They, at least, should not bear any of the blame which attaches itself to the people of Deseronto so long as the schools are allowed to remain in their present unsatisfactory condition.

DESERONTO PUBLIC SCHOOL.

The following is the reply of the Inspector of schools to the Deseronto correspondent of the Belleville Intelligencer:
 Sir,—Any one reading the effusion of your Deseronto correspondent in yesterday's issue would think that the Inspector rarely visited the school at Deseronto and that he was ignorant of the large attendance in the junior room.
 It was known to me since early in the winter that there were too many scholars in this room. The Trustees tried to rent a room but could find none. They then asked those on the tablets to come in the forenoon three hours, and those in part II. to attend in the afternoon for the same time. This met with my approval as being the best that could be done under the circumstances. The Board intend to erect this summer a building with two or three rooms adjoining the present one, but this could not be done in the winter.

All the rooms were thoroughly examined by me on Wednesday and Thursday, May 7th and 8th. At that time Miss Richards had over 100 in attendance during the day and of these 97 were examined.

Miss Mayhew had 51 present—14 in part II. Your correspondent book, they were examined in all the subjects taught, viz. reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic and geography. The examination showed that they were well and thoroughly taught and the order and attention good and all that could be desired.

Miss Davenport had 57 present—27 in second book, 18 in junior third and 11 in senior third book. They all passed a splendid examination, being most efficiently taught by a thorough, energetic and painstaking teacher.

Mr. Emerson had 40 present—14 in senior third book and two classes in the fourth book of 12 and 14 respectively. These three classes were examined in all the subjects taught. The examination of this room was most satisfactory, the scholars being well prepared in the work gone over. None of the rooms other than the junior room is crowded.

This school has been thoroughly examined every six months, from one and a half to two days being spent each time. It was examined in 1883, Oct. 15th and 16th, and 1884, June 6th and 7th.

Your correspondent winds up by saying that, "Our school here is a sad failure, and is getting worse all the time." This is not true, as the school is in an excellent state of efficiency, and this can be shown at any time. Miss Richards is doing the best she can for the scholars under her charge, and as the most of them are very young—too young to attend school—they will not lose anything by being away for half of the time, and when the new rooms are built and another teacher employed the loss, if any, will be made up.

I am willing at any time to publicly examine the school to show him and the ratepayers that it is efficiently taught. I have frequently examined it in the presence of Mr. Aylwerth, the Rev. Mr. Craig, Mr. Egar and other trustees, and many of the ratepayers. If your correspondent will send me his name, I shall see that he will be informed of the date of the next inspection, so that he may be present.

JOHN JOHNSON,
Inspector.

KERWATIN.

A TRIP TO THE KERWATIN GOLD FIELDS.

The Kowatin territory, called by the Indians the land of the North Wind, while acquiring considerable notoriety from the boundary dispute between the Ontario and Dominion governments in, as regards its resources, as yet comparatively unknown. In this article it is proposed to describe a few incidents of a trip made two years ago by one who for some time lived in Manitoba. The Lake of the Woods, distant about one hundred and thirty miles from Winnipeg, is perhaps one of the most beautiful sheets of water in Canada. It is a beautiful region, treated with the sublime. The grand and majestic, here are well nigh entirely wanting, but the overlying aspect, the unexpected breaks and turns of the shores furnish a degree of enjoyment seldom experienced. When overpowered by the native grandeur of lofty mountains and jagged cliffs that tower aloft in frowning silence, a crushing sense of his own insignificance come home to the traveler.

At the time of taking this trip, the Winnipeg papers took with articles on the gold mines in the Lake district, and on our arrival at Rat Portage we sauntered out into the main street half-expecting to be pounced upon by a horde of half crazed, blue-eyed, and evil liver desperadoes, also miners, various of booziness, salted claims and all that ilk, floated before our eyes, the air of the place seemingly full of the products of the mines. The hotels were crowded with who, with a feverish anxiety and enthusiasm exceedingly painful to the uninterested beholder, discussed the development work going on at the mines. An Indian dog team having been secured we set out for the Heenan mine, passing on the way several mining and survey parties engaged in defining the so-called "claims." In due course we reached the camp, the office in charge extending to us the usual hospitalities. The camp, named the "Brunswick House" by the miners, was built upon a spot from which could be seen a magnificent view of the lake. Scarcely nestled amid a cluster of tall pines it looked out from the top of a rock upon a bay dotted with many timbered islands. From here on to south the eye searched in vain for a trace of a cloud, and the overpowering brilliancy of the sea of crystals before us, was but faintly relieved by the dim, dark outlines of virgin forests which loomed up in the far distance. The lake is indeed fittingly termed Lake of the Woods. The numbers of islands in it is said to be forty thousand, the largest being not more than eight miles in length. Many places are named by the Indians in accordance with their superstitions. "Devil's Gap," the span between three islands is so named from a mysterious ruffling of the water accompanied by a wind gurgling sound heard only at intervals. A few years ago near this spot a load of dynamite was lost in transportation, and since that it has been avoided as much by the whites as by the Indians.

The country is of that formation known to geologists as the Huronian and it is traversed from east to west by dykes of mineral bearing rocks. Gold, silver, copper, antimony and arsenic are found in greater or lesser abundance. The mines we reached were under way as far as the work of excavation and exploration were concerned. The gold found was taken from free-milling decomposed quartz. By free-milling quartz is understood that in which in its native state uncombined with any other metals. The opposite of free milling is refractory ore, in which the gold is in chemical combination with many other metals. The most difficult to work of all refractory ores, owing to the unavoidable complication of both parties and machinery is that in which zinc-blende, sulphur, arsenic, and antimony are all present. The ores of this district contrary to the usual state of things are of both kinds, indeed, it is a subject of remark that every useful and valuable mineral is found. The descent into the mine was accomplished without anything of note happening. The quartz veins were well defined, and according to the statements of the mine superintendent increased in richness and width with depth. Taking a hammer we clipped off at random several pieces of quartz, in every one of which finding free gold. In one of the mines, the quartz, consolidated, the ore in treating the ore is to crush it to an impalpable powder. This is done by means of stamps, vertical rollers weighing about 750 pounds which are raised by means of an arm of the staff. The arm having completed a half revolution turns from the stamp which immediately falls on the ore crushing it to fine powder. This pulverized ore is forced through a fine screen sieve, and over copper plates coated with quicksilver into a settling trough, the mercury catching up much of the free gold and forming amalgam. As soon as the trough is filled, the sediment is put into the amalgamating pan, in the bottom of which is a quantity of mercury. Over this mercury, four arms revolve slowly, keeping the pulp in constant motion.

THE RESULT of this rotary motion is this, the particles of gold from their specific gravity sink to the bottom and are raised out by the arms of mercury, while the lighter particles are either kept in suspension or fall to the surface of the amalgam. After some hours work the pan is tapped and out rushes the sickened quick. The next step is to separate the gold from the quicksilver, and this is done by setting the amalgam into a retort and distilling the mercury by heat, leaving the gold or silver and other metals behind. The residue is taken out melted in a crucible run into moulds, and after cooling is cleaned and burnished, when it is ready for the market. A tramp of fifteen miles took us to Rat Portage, the way being unaided by an encounter with some drunken Indians who tried to rob us of what valuables we had in our pockets. The next morning we had a very large bear made his way across the lake, and taking to the road met us face to face. The position seemed so dangerous one, and the knowledge that bears out in March are not the most genial and amiable of brutes was decidedly the source of reassurance. However, after eating us some little time with a distrust which I need hardly say was mutual, brain suddenly gave a disgusted snort or grunt and went aside to our great relief and amusement. We observed he looked at us time and time again with great uneasiness, as though fearing we should follow. Our trip was upon the whole a pleasant one, despite having to sleep out in open air occasionally, and we returned home none the worse for our adventures. —MARTIN V. BARTON.

A Witness for the Defence.

IN THREE PARTS.—CHAPTER II.

When I got back to town, the sessions were only a week off; so the first thing I did was to call on the solicitor in charge of my case, in order to find from him how I stood, and to take off his hands. The magistrate, of course, had sent the prisoner for trial. When I came to read the charges, I found the case against me was perfectly simple, and as conclusive as circumstantial evidence could make it. The crime had occurred so long ago that a diligent search had unearthed some witnesses. A servant-girl, who had now become the wife of a dairyman in the immediate neighborhood, was round, she proved the bad conduct of young Harden, and the ill-will which gradually grew up between him and her former mistress. She also spoke to his ejection from the house on the day of the murder, a day to his threat at the street door. She swore to the knife, which had been in the possession of the police ever since, as having belonged to the prisoner. There were other witnesses to the same facts, and the landlord, my client, and several others, proved the flourishing of the identical knife and the ominous words of the publican. To complete the chain, the man who had instructed me proved the finding of the knife in the room where the murder was committed; and two or three other witnesses, remembered being by his side and seeing him stoop down and pick it up. These, with the final facts of his sudden death, his change of name, appeared both to me and to my friend to be capable of being spun into a rope quite strong enough to swing John Harden out of the world.

"But," said my solicitor-friend, "the queerest thing of all is that no one is going to appear for the defence."

"No one to appear for him?"

"No one," young Elkin held a watching brief on behalf of the prisoner's master, that is all. He said, Harden had been in Mr. Slocum's—that is his master—service for over seven years, behaving extremely well all his time. He was a quiet, steady, and honest man, who is something of an invalid. He had turned religious, and was disgusted at his former wicked life."

"But I suppose he has money—or, at any rate, if Slocum is a fond of him, why doesn't he pay for the defence?"

"Why, it seems that the nation of religion forbids Harden to avail himself of worldly art. Slocum is only too anxious to retain one; but Harden won't have it, and no one can persuade him. Says he is the hands of a Higher Power, and it shall be given him what he shall speak, and all the rest of it. He wanted to make a speech to the magistrate, but Slocum, by his advice, did manage to induce him to hold his tongue for the present, and say he would receive his defence. Of course they hope he will come to his senses before the trial. But I don't know how to help it. I never saw such an obstinate pig. Only gave in to his master at last, and then the poor man began to whimper in court!"

The main part of my work had been done for me, and it only remained to bespeak copies of the deposition and to wait, and make sure that they intended to say at the Old Bailey substantially the same things as they had said at the police court—a most necessary precaution, the imagination being so vivid in people of this class that they were very likely to amplify their tale if possible, and prepare their trial for the next day's court. This, I had but to let things take their course.

When the day of the trial came I was busy in my place at the County Court, having various other cases in hand there. The prisoner, as is customary, were first put up and arraigned—that is, had the substance of their indictment read over to them—and were called on to plead "guilty" or "not guilty." These disposed of the case, and the magistrate, who I looked at him with some curiosity. No sooner had I done so than I knew that he was a free upon which at some time or other I had looked back, which, when I took note, it is a useful peculiarity of mine that I never forget a face to which I have once paid any attention, and I can generally recollect the circumstances under which I saw it. But here the latter part of my powers failed me. I knew the face well, but could not imagine when, and where I had seen it. I was sure that I had seen the man bare-headed, and that he was not free, as now, bald on the crown. The thing, however, was not in the moonlight, John Harden was being put up to take his trial for the murder of Agatha Harden.

"I find, appear to prosecute in this case," said my counsel, starting up and down again like the blade of a knife.

"Does anybody appear for the prisoner?" asked the judge.

"I understand, m'lord, that the prisoner is not represented," said counsel, appearing and disappearing before.

"My lord," said an agitated voice from the body of the court, "I have used all possible efforts."

"Silence!" proclaimed the usher.

"Who is that?" quired the judge, looking over his spectacles.

"My lord, I am a foolish fellow—a master of no account, but I am justly convicted—and I cannot bear you, if the prisoner wishes to have counsel assigned to him for his defence. I will come to the gentleman, and will take care that the prisoner shall have every opportunity for his instruction; and if you desire to give evidence on his behalf, you can do so—Prisoner, if you wish, that counsel be assigned to you for your defence."

Harden had been standing with his head slightly bent, and his clasped hands resting on the rail of the dock. He now looked up at the judge, and replied in a grave and passive voice: "My lord, I wish no help but the help of God. I am in His hands, and I deliver me. Who am I? Who am I, that I should interfere with his work?"

"You appear to me," said the judge gravely, "to be a man of some determination."

You say, rightly that you are in God's hands, but that would not hinder you from using some instructions for your deliverance. It is my duty to ask you, will you desire to be represented by counsel?"

"No, my lord."

"So be it—Now, Mr. Clincher."

Having once more, counsel, for the prosecution proceeded to open his case. It was clear and straightforward, put concisely and tellingly, and embraced the facts which the reader already knows. He then called his witnesses, and as each after each left the box, it was easy to see from the faces of the jury that things were likely to go hard with the prisoner. Always, in answer to the inquiry, "Do you wish to put any questions to this witness?" Harden replied:

"No, my lord. He has said the truth, for all I know."

So smoothly did the trial run its course, that only one incident called for remark. This was when my client got into the box, to procure the conviction of the prisoner, that he twice called down upon himself a severe rebuke from the judge, for persisting in volunteering irrelevant statements to Harden's prejudice. And when counsel at length said, "I have said my case," the judge, with a little doubt remained as to the prisoner's fate. I still sat with my gaze fascinated by the set face in the dock, trying to remember it, and where I had last looked upon it.

"Do you propose, prisoner, to call any witnesses?" asked the judge.

"Only my master, my lord—Mr. Slocum. I'll speak for me, and he'll say, I know, that I'm not the man to kill any living thing."

"Very well.—And now, before calling him, do you desire to address the jury?"

The interest of the case, except for the interest of the public, was in a trial for murder, had slightly flagged, revised now that a human being was virtually "grilled" by the evidence of the prisoner.

I meant that there was no defence or attempt at a defence, that the jury must convict, and that the man must die. I was not a murderer. There was not a sound in the court. It was late in the afternoon, and the judge, the intent faces, all looking one way, the dropping head and white-clothed countenance of the prisoner—the man standing up in the full health and strength, and whose life was going down with the sun.

I have but a few words to say, my lord and gentlemen. I didn't do it. I was bad enough, and maybe cruel enough, in doing so, and so mad, my lord and gentlemen, that I might have done it if it had happened earlier in the day, under almost to myself, and I couldn't have done it, and why? Because I was miles away at the time. My poor master, who has been in my service for over seven years, has been killed between a quarter and a quarter past eight in the evening. Well at eight o'clock I was at least five miles from the house, and I was going out of the house—as she says, at a quarter to eight—it isn't according to reason that I could have broken open the cupboard, and taken the money, and got miles off in a quarter of an hour. He stopped and drew the cuff of his coat across his forehead.

"And then I saw him there. Where was he? I don't know. I don't know what that very action."

"O gentlemen, I couldn't have done it. I don't know what I know, now, how bad that must have been—the mercy of God has been upon me since those days—but as I was, I loved her too much, and knew it, I couldn't have done it. I don't know, I believe me! I tell you I was miles away at the time—miles away. As you can tell as you are saying true, you will ask. No more from a poor fellow like me, who was near that I knew, to come here and speak the truth for me this day. But I know the same God that saved Daniel can save me from a poor fellow like me. I'll tell you if not, His will be done. I'm keeping you too long, only saying the same over and over again. I don't know what it was, and I've done, and you must do as duty bids you."

Another pause. The silence of the dock, or rather the silence of the witness in the distance of the darkened court shimmered through the gloom, like those of spectres waiting to welcome a coming shade. Then the gavel fell, and the witness, with an sudden distinction, and there was a general half stir as relief.

"Oh, isn't there one who can speak for me? Is there any one who can tell the great gas main explosion in—Street that year?"

"There was again a stir, and a more decided one. Clearly there were many in court who remembered it. I did for one. And remembering it, I seemed as in a tunnel, and I seemed to see the distant light of the house from that distance, and I knew that I can distinguish no feature of the landscape beyond."

"I was there—that night. It was the night of the murder. How I came to be there, so far from my own neighborhood, I don't know, but I found myself working hard, and I was in the house, and I was in the house from that distance, and I knew that I can distinguish no feature of the landscape beyond."

brella, so that even the impressive judge gave a start, and the usher, waking up, once more pronounced "Silence!" with shocked intensity. The faces of the members of the jury of the law, I beckoned to my counsel, and as he leaned over to me in surprise I whispered to him, "I am not the man to kill any living thing, but I am the man to kill any living thing."

"Your lordship will pardon me," he said, "for interposing myself between you and the prisoner; but I am instructed to make a communication which I feel sure will be as astounding to your lordship and the jury as it is to myself. It is my duty to instruct me to prosecute tenders himself as a witness for the defence!"

A LOST EARL.

Lord Drummond Turns Up as a Porter in a New York Shipping House.

A despatch from New York, says: A wealthy and respected New York family, an old friend of the Cape of Good Hope, and at his request a correspondent has been engaged for some time past in an investigation of the life of the late Earl of Drummond, heir to the earldom of Perth and Melfort, and a kinsman of Queen Victoria, who eloped to America with his first wife, and who was killed in the rebellion of 1847.

The Tribune.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1884.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

Hot weather.

Eggs are plentiful—on the potato leaves.

Mr. J. M. Poitras kindly forwards us some eastern papers.

The thermometer reached 89.5 in the shade on Tuesday and 89.7 yesterday.

There are quite a number of dogs whose necks remain unadorned with the tags required by the by-law.

Some Napanee bicyclists passed through the town on Saturday giving an exhibition of their skill as knights of the wheel.

Trenton has adopted the early closing movement, the shops in future closing at 7 p.m. Deseronto still ranks with backwoods villages in this matter.

The congregation of the Baptist Church, Belleville, will have an excursion on the steamer Quinte to the Lake on the Mountain, next Wednesday afternoon.

GARDEN PARTY.—The Ladies Aid Society of the Church of the Redeemer purpose holding a Garden Party on the grounds of E. W. Rathbun, Esq., on Saturday evening, 28th inst.

The yacht Norah was launched on Saturday morning and proceeded to Belleville the same day. It is probable she will compete at some of the approaching contests on the Bay.

OFF AGAIN.—Mr. Burgess and his corps of assistants set out early on Monday morning to erect station houses and freight sheds at Moscow and Tamworth on the N. T. & Q. Railway.

POSTAL.—The mail clerks on the Grand Trunk are either overworked or very inattentive to their duties. In no other way can we account for bundles of newspapers being so frequently misrouted. There are numerous complaints on this score.

MOJAWK DELEGATION.—The following persons have been deputed to represent the Indians of the Mohawk Reserve at the approaching Semi-Centennial celebration in Toronto, viz.: Chief Annosothkah, Chief A. Culbertson, Chief C. Maricle, Chief Wm. Green and W. J. W. Hill and Seth W. Hill.

CANOE CLUB.—The commodore of the fleet threw his broad pennon to the breeze one evening last week just off the dangerous reefs of Unger's island as a signal for the members of the Canoe Club to hold a meeting. The business was expeditiously transacted and six new members were received into this popular organization.

MR. WELD, of the Farmer's Advocate, London, Ont., gave us the pleasure of a call last week. He has been paying a visit to the Bay district in the interest of his journal. He expressed himself delighted with the progressive management of Bay View Farm and was surprised to find such a lively community as Deseronto in this old section of Canada.

BOARD WALKS.—The council are making a very fair job of the board walks on Main street, both on the north and south side. It is a pleasure now for pedestrians to take a promenade in the evenings with the knowledge that they can put down their feet without running a very great risk. If the crossings at Eggar's corner were only in good condition, the outlook for the future would not be so very dismal after all.

RICH TREAT.—The Rev. H. G. Parker, professor of elocution of Queen's college, Kingston, and graduate of the Philadelphia school of oratory, has consented, we are happy to learn, to give in Deseronto some evening in the first week in July a selection of his inimitable readings under the auspices of Christ Church, Tyndinaga. As Mr. Parker has the reputation of being one of the best readers and elocutionists, if not the best in Canada, we predict for him a full house and for his audience a rare treat.

MR. WM. PATTERSON before leaving for the west sold his house on Powley Hill for one thousand dollars.

LARGE numbers will no doubt avail themselves of the opportunity to take a trip to Belleville by the Quinte on Saturday night.

At the last meeting of the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church Rev. J. C. Ash was reappointed to the Shannonville circuit.

ARDENT sportsmen are now daily overheard telling tall stories about monster bass, pike and sun fish which slipped off the hook, just as they were pulling them into the boat.

FUEL COMMISSION.—Some interesting tests were made with the fuel compressor last week. This powerful machine will probably effect a revolution in fuel supply in the near future.

The bathing season is now fully on and naked urchins with blistered backs can now be seen at all available points of the bay and at nearly any hour of the day disporting in the placid waters of the bay.

RETURNED.—Mr. James Burgess and his crew of joiners have returned home having completed the seven stations on the Ontario and Quebec Railway for which the Rathbun Company had received the contract.

We are glad to see by the Whig that there is no lawlessness whatever in Kingston. The reports of riots between soldiers and citizens, and slonings of an officer were only the mythical giments of a reporter's disordered brain.

BOAT UPRIGHT.—As a yacht was proceeding down the bay on Monday evening the lookout discovered a boat floating bottom up on which was a man and dog; when taken aboard the man was discovered to be a prominent baker of Deseronto.

GEDDIS has a semi-centennial at his ice cream parlor every day during the hot season. His celebrations are of a cosmopolitan character, grins and tongs, annexationists and independents, all in fact can celebrate there over ice cream and strawberries.

FIRE.—On Tuesday morning a fire broke out in the firehole at the machine shops. For a little time it looked threatening but the new automatic apparatus lately introduced most successfully extinguished the flames without any extraneous assistance.

MR. JAMES BOWEN, postmaster of Deseronto, as one of the oldest descendants of the Loyalists in the district, was present at the Adolphustown celebration and was assigned a position of honor on the occasion of laying the foundation of the monument on Monday.

THE Mutual Marriage Aid association is at last in trouble. Some of the young men of Deseronto are interested in the affair, and it is feared that they will not now be considered a first-class investment by the young ladies of the village, who have generally a pretty keen eye for business.

GOSSIP.—A clergyman was very severe in his strictures last Sunday on that portion of the female sex who are wont to indulge in gossip to the detriment of their neighbor's character. It seems that there are actually some such in this village. They are recommended to hold their tongues in future, the easiest thing in the world for the average women to do.

SILKWOOD has the country presented a more beautiful appearance than it wears at present. The crops are looking well though more rain would now be desirable. The woods are magnificent with their rich foliage, and amateur naturalists can now satiate their desires for specimens by gathering hundreds of beautiful wild flowers as they ramble along rustic lanes or through the clumps of bush in the vicinity of the village.

ART LOAN EXHIBITION.—The ladies of Belleville have with commendable zeal got up an Art Loan Exhibition in aid of the Hospital and Home fund. They have a fine display of valuable pictures, works of art and rare curiosities. Besides these there will be music and song to add to the general enjoyment. This should attract visitors from all parts of the county. The exhibition commences to-day and lasts until Saturday, every afternoon and evening.

LOSS OF THE NELLIE P. DOWNEY.—During a dense fog last Thursday night the schooner Nellie P. Downey, of Napanee, collided with the barge Oswego, in tow of the tug Glide, in the outer harbor of Oswego. The schooner which had on board 6,700 bushels of rye went down in four minutes after the collision, Capt. Bartley and crew escaping on the barge. The Downey was owned by Gaylord, Downey & Co. of Oswego, was built eleven years ago and was valued at about $6,000.

FIND.—A gentleman has found a Bible containing a lock of hair which the owner can recover by calling at THE TRIBUNE office.

A falling sash in the post office effectually captured a visitor yesterday, holding him by the coat tail until he was released by a passing friend. He was not an aristocratic barulder.

THE Quinte took an immense crowd to Adolphustown on Tuesday evening to see the procession at that place. The sail down the bay was greatly enjoyed after the scorching heat of the day.

DR. GRANT'S annual attended the Rochester Soc. and in full Indian costume and responded to the toast "The Ladies" at the great public banquet given by the city authorities.

MR. M. LALLY, License Inspector, and Mr. Phillips, chairman of the Provincial Board of Commissioners, gave us a friendly call on Thursday last. They were attending a meeting of the Board convened here to transact some important business.

THE Synod of the diocese of Ontario will meet at Ottawa next Tuesday. In addition to Rev. T. Staunton, the rector, the following gentlemen will be present as lay delegates from St. Mark's church, viz.—W. G. Eggar, Wm. Irving, and T. Figen.

THREE medical gentlemen who were present at the examination at Fitchton have addressed a letter to the sheriff denying reports of alleged bungling by the hangman. They state that they never saw better arrangements, and that insensibility took place instantly.

We have received from Mr. John T. Moore, managing director of the Saskatchewan Homestead Company, a copy of its Settlers Pocket Guide to Homesteads in the Canadian North West. It contains a mass of useful information, which must be of great service to intending settlers in that portion of the Dominion.

NEW WINNIMILL.—Mr. James Cameron, of the Central Depot, has, with his usual enterprise, erected a large windmill and water tank on his premises, both being placed on a very high tower. This will give him a good supply of water and be a protection against fire. It is quite an ornament to that part of the town.

COW BY-LAW.—The Chief is obeying his instructions by impounding all animals running at large. Public opinion is with the council who are determined to insist on a compliance with this wholesome regulation. It is no use for parties to find fault with the Chief who has strict commands to enforce the law without fear or favor.

METHODIST CHURCH.—The Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church will meet in Napanee to-day. The different circuits in this part of the country will be supplied on Sunday by members of the Conference. We learn that Revs. W. J. Maybee and J. C. Ash will probably conduct the services in the Brick church on that day.

COMPLAINT.—We are requested to draw attention to the unseemly conduct of some of the boys and young men who attend the excursions. They appear to have no sense of propriety whatever, their noisy babbling and indecent profanity being offensive to the great mass of excursionists. If the captains or others in authority would make an example of one or two of them a remedy would speedily be effected.

We had the pleasure of a visit last week from W. P. Hudson, M. P. P. for East Hastings. He had been looking through the different establishments and was much pleased with all that he witnessed in this busy corner of his constituency. Learning of the coming demonstration on Dominion Day he very generously contributed a handsome sum for procuring a prize for some of the athletic sports on that occasion.

THE EXCURSION.—The excursion under the auspices of St. Mark's Church Society, like all the events connected with St. Mark's church, proved very pleasant. There was a large party who managed to enjoy themselves to their hearts' content. The Lake on the Mountain was visited and its beauties admired. A handsome amount was realized for the Building Fund.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.—His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and his aide-de-camp, Capt. Geddes, passed down on the Utica on Tuesday morning on their way to Adolphustown. His Honor is a well preserved old gentleman of easy and affable manners, just the man for his position. He was accompanied by Judge Wilkinson and other prominent citizens of Napanee. The party were joined here by Chief Annosothkah, and Mr. Jesse P. Martin, the former being one of the orators in that day's procession.

GOSSIP TEND.—The evangelists continue their services in the gospel tent which is pitched in the vacant lot east of Coleman's studio. The audiences are large and the general public are cordially invited and welcomed.

THAT ill weeds grow apace is only too evident on many of the streets. Saturday is the longest day in the year; why not let every citizen turn out that afternoon or evening and cut down those in front of his residence just to see what an improvement it would effect in the appearance of the village.

DESERONTO TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.—There was a business meeting of the Deseronto Temperance Society on Friday evening which was well attended. The society still continues in a very healthy condition and will continue to carry on its good work which has already been productive of so much good in this community. The following officers were elected for the ensuing quarter:—Wm. Stoddart, President; Albert E. Parnham, Sec'y; Miss Parks, Treasurer; Rev. R. J. Craig, J. Houlston, R. Boyart, W. B. Graham, Executive Committee.

DOMINION DAY.—Everything indicates that the people of Deseronto will have a first class demonstration on Dominion Day. The committee have issued their programme which shows a list of amusements on a scale greater than were attempted before. The athletic sports are numerous and attractive and will bring out a host of competitors. The committee have paid more attention this year to getting up a series of aquatic sports which will take place in the afternoon. Valuable cups and prizes will be given to the winners in these events. The sub-committees have been struck and are working like beavers to have everything in readiness. The material for the fireworks has arrived and we are safe in predicting such a display in this line as residents of the bay district have never before witnessed. The grand pageant and accompanying procession at noon will be a grand triumph of decorative art. Steamers and trains will carry passengers from all points at low rates and no admission fees will be charged to grounds as is customary elsewhere.

The Landown Seythe is the best made, you can get one at the Big Store. Mr. Amos Baker has temporarily transferred his services to the Napanee branch office of the Rathbun Company.

DAWN.

On the upturned face of the quivering sea
Shrouded the dew-drops of the night.

White bars of light stole up in the sky,
And the night was gone.

Was gone—the with the fear of a followed dawn,
And with hurrying feet

To find in the shades of the forest glades
A safe retreat.

The legends of stars that had watched wearily,
Crops out of sight;

Upraised the helm of the advancing Day,
And fast fled the night.

A fresh wind blew from the edge of the sea,
From the gates of the East,

That splashed the tide on the feet of the land,
And the light increased.

And the glittering tips of a myriad spears
Shot up from the sea.

With guidons and pennants and lances of light—
A splendor to see.

A hundred flags were upheld in the sky,
And unfurled there.

Banners of light that glimmered and gleamed
In the morning air.

Then from the glowing east uprose
The kindly Sun.

And the sea grew gold as a stool for his feet
To rest upon.

Luminous Plants.

Another form of vegetable light has suggested some form of electric action. A. J. Linnaeus, sitting in the garden at dusk, saw a small insect, which he took as the model of some yellow naturatums. Here eyes were naturally fixed on the spot, and presently another light flash raised her wonder. She looked up and saw a flower-bell she found that the flash evidently proceeded from the naturatums. Of course, her father's attention was called to it, and she was told that it was a matter of reality without, however, being able to give any explanation. The same thing has also been observed in marigolds by another person. He saw a poppy at a third. As these flowers are so familiar, it is not surprising that he should have been so curious to ask why it should be reserved to scientific experts to see such things? But it is not only the flowers that are so luminous. A rock, light, momentarily, and the luminosity

Paul's horses were admonished and chastised if they forgot the respect due to the rider. Speed of Thought.

Many people have noticed the remarkable speed with which I thought in dreaming, how a long story, with a great deal of detail, would flash through the mind in a few minutes, but I have never been able to measure it. I have only been roughly measuring the quickness with which eye sometimes dream. There is now going to be a trial of the press a story purporting to be the life of a man, and I am going to try to tell the truth, after a means of measurement, and the story itself has every appearance of being the work of a man of experience. The engineer had been with me a long time, and I had many more, but at last fell asleep in his post. He then dreamed quite an odd dream, and I was not able to give a confusion of train order; how he studied over the words of the dispatch, try to get the meaning, and then how, his train coming into collision with another, was thrown into the air and dropped back onto his seat in the cab with his hand to his head. He was very much surprised, and he found that it was all a dream and that although his train was travelling at the rate of fifty or sixty miles an hour, it had only gone a few hundred feet. He was passing through his mind, this distance being fixed by the position of the train with the engine, and the distance of the engine from the interesting part of the story, if it were measurements are approximately correct, the train coupled less than four couplers, and the engine was about a mile from the Machine guns in the field are now entirely abandoned. The French mitrailleuses from which such wonders were expected have been replaced by the machine gun, which is too heavy to draw it. Its range was practically the same as that of infantry, and had its disadvantages. If the range was correct and the mark remained steady, great execution could be made. It was not possible to throw every bullet out, unless at short range. Both French and Germans have given up machine guns for the field, and have substituted the light machine gun and artillery. They look ahead that the machine gun cannot face field artillery at artillery ranges, and that its position is exposed. It is not possible to dig in the walls of buildings or earthworks; but they believe when two heroic bodies of infantry are closing, the machine guns may be brought from cover, in which they should be used. The machine gun then exercises great influence on the result.

to maintain that what the Israelites (as they are called) prayed for was not that the sun and moon might "stand still," but that they might "be silent"—that is to say, "cease to shine"—dessecher, as the Hebrew text has it. The storm of hail stones was the principal cause of the defeat of the allied King. Joshua finding that the storm and darkness by which it was accompanied did more towards the overthrow of the enemy than his own troops naturally prayed that the darkness might continue until the utter ruin of the foe was accomplished. The formidable astronomical objections to the miracle are thus at once removed by a simple philological discovery.

It is not objectionable unless the instrument happens to be out of order, and then it is very unmusical. The cars are a great convenience, and are very liberally patronized. One sees in them the economy of the French people as a class, very finely dressed ladies standing on the platform to save five cents. Economy is observable everywhere in France, and there is much truth in the aphorism that 'the people could live on what the American wars.'"

The man who has the floor—the father of twins at midnight.

JOHN WHITE, Esq., M. P. was in town on Saturday attending to some important business.

A MACHINE that will darn stockings has been invented. This will give more time to devote to crazy quits and other useful household duties.

THE rush at Geddis' ice cream parlor has been somewhat phenomenal during the past few weeks. Geddis can furnish you also with delicious strawberries.

THE printers of Napanee have in contemplation a union picnic at an early date at some convenient point on the bay. It will no doubt prove the affair of the season.

THEIR are still some weeds and thistles left on Centre street, many of the residents of that thoroughfare not having joined in the general improvement movement last Saturday.

PICTON people are much annoyed at the Captain of the Reindeer who neglected to call at that port during the recent demonstration after having previously signified his intention to do so.

GREAT RECORD.—The folk in the Big Mill have carried out their intentions of beating all previous records, the number of logs cut last Tuesday being 2,161. It is now thought that 2,500 can be reached at some early date.

THE Indians on the Reserve will turn out at some day in the near future to adorn and improve the grave yard and grounds around Christ church. The chiefs are leading in the good work, which will result in that pretty spot being made doubly attractive to its many visitors.

THE unhappy individual who was so cleverly entrapped in the post office last week has again been made an unwilling victim and carried off to Picton by the mail steamer Deseronto. Protestations were of no avail, that stern officer Capt. Skillen who thinks only of close connections and therefore counts every moment precious would not return to the dock.

A PEST.—A great number of fields in this part of the country are now yellow, not with golden corn but with mustard, which in some localities appears to be the dominant crop. This pest is every year making greater inroads and unless the farmers wake up and make common cause against this nuisance it will soon be completely beyond their control, and will require to be made the subject of legislative enactment.

HANDSOME RESIDENCE.—The new residence now being erected on the Napanee road by W. R. Aylworth, Esq., is now well advanced the brick work being all completed. It is pleasantly situated on the north side of the road and will give a fine view of the bay and surrounding country. A drive house has been built and work has commenced on a large barn so that when all is finished the Reeve will have one of the most desirable properties in this part of the country.

GARDEN PARTY.—The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Church of the Redeemer will hold a garden festival on the grounds of E. W. Rathbun, Esq., to-morrow afternoon, (Friday), commencing at three o'clock. The ladies are making extensive arrangements and will have the grounds nicely illuminated and decorated for the occasion. Ice cream, strawberries, and all the delicacies of the season will be bountifully dispensed and nothing will be left undone to make visitors supremely happy. The Deseronto Brass band will be present to furnish music on the occasion and everything indicates a good time. Admission to grounds 10 cents, children 5 cents. The public are cordially invited.

Buy your books, and daily papers at THE TRIBUNE office.

THE Band continues to practice with exemplary diligence and are making wonderful progress as a consequence. A DISTINGUISHED observer's letter will trust be carefully read by all. It places an important truth in a new light.

A full attendance of the members of St. Mark's Church Choir is requested at the practice this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock.

A BEER near Lansdale ended in a drunken affray in which a young man was stabbed several times by a drunken companion.

A THOMAS street man compels his daughter to eat onions every night for supper, and at 10 p. m. that household is sleeping peacefully.

THE Gannaque Field Battery Band, one of the best in Canada, assisted by the Deseronto Brass Band will furnish the music on Dominion Day.

LOST.—Mr. Campbell, of the Deseronto Flour Mills, dropped a valuable watch into the bay last week. All the boys of the village have been diving for it since but so far without success.

POSTPONED.—On account of the Lawn Festival which is announced for Friday afternoon and evening, there will be no meeting of the Deseronto Temperance Society this week as previously announced.

SUMMONED.—Notwithstanding our disinterested warnings several citizens have been summoned to appear before the magistrate to show cause why their dogs have not been provided with tags. Others will do well to take warning.

A SHINGLE, painted black on one side and white on the other and suspended by a single cord from the end of a pole stuck obliquely into the ground makes the best "scarecrow" a person can find. The shingle keeps constantly twisting back and forth.

FAREWELL SERMON.—Rev. J. C. Ash will preach his farewell sermon in the Brick Church on Sunday evening next. There will be a very large congregation to hear the parting words of this popular pastor who has labored so acceptably among the people of Deseronto.

WE are waiting patiently for an interesting item to be furnished by the broken crossing at Eggar's corner. We expect to hear of some esteemed citizen getting a broken limb and an interesting action for damages against the corporation unless repairs are speedily executed.

HOLIDAY.—Saturday the 28th day of June, having been fixed by his Excellency the Governor General for the official celebration, in this present year, of her Majesty's birthday, his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to direct that all public offices be closed on that day.

A SUCCESSFUL PUPIL.—Miss Nellie O'Connor, who has been attending the Ville Marie Convent, in Montreal, has returned home for vacation. We congratulate her on her success at that institution where she carried off a number of prizes for excellence in different branches, including music and drawing.

MASONIC EXCURSION.—There is this year an unlimited choice of attractions for Dominion Day. Among others is the excursion and picnic at Massawissa Point under the auspices of Craig Lodge. An energetic committee has the affair in hand and are working zealously to make everything pleasant for excursionists. The Quinte is chartered for the occasion and a good time is guaranteed.

FOOT RACE.—The coming Dominion day celebration, with its exciting games and athletic sports, is stirring up our local athletes who are practicing most diligently for the approaching contest. An exciting race came off on St. George street on Saturday evening, between T. Mallory and Chas. Elliott, the distance being 100 yards, best two out of three. Mallory came off victorious winning the first and third heats. The Quinte drew a large crowd of spectators.

STIRRING TIMES.—The town presented an unusually brisk and lively appearance on Saturday evening. The Quinte arrived from Belleville with a crowd of excursionists bent on getting their eyes opened by the different sights of this busy centre. She departed about 7:30 on her return, taking a number of Deseronto people whose departure was witnessed by a large crowd. The foot race attracted a large number of spectators to George street while a family and contentions drew an enthusiastic audience on Centre street. After the excessive heat of the day all the youth and beauty appeared to be out enjoying a promenade in the cool of the evening.

CAREFULLY peruse our advertising columns this week, before making your purchases for Dominion Day.

Our readers will be glad to hear from Mr. Mallory himself that he has arrived safely at his new home.

The house lately occupied by Mr. Wm. Patterson is being fitted up preparatory to its occupancy by Mr. Campbell of the Deseronto Flour Mills.

This is the age of woman's rights and it is not surprising therefore that a lady takes advantage of our columns to remove the imputation that gossip is confined exclusively to the gentle sex.

It is unnecessary to ask the citizens to make a display of bunting and otherwise decorate their premises for Dominion Day. There has been always a desirable rivalry in that respect.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The Ladies of St. Mark's Church, Deseronto, purpose having a Strawberry Festival and Garden Party at the residence of John McCullough Esq., Dundas St., on Tuesday afternoon and evening, July 8th.

VANDALISM.—Some parties unknown have destroyed a number of young trees set out this season by Mr. W. H. Mellow. Every effort will be made to discover the offender who it is hoped will receive the utmost penalty which the law can inflict.

DISAPPOINTED.—The large congregation which met on Sunday in the Brick church were greatly disappointed, the expected supply from conference not having put in an appearance for some reason as yet unknown. There was a blunder somewhere.

SOMETHING NEW.—Mr. Richardson, manager of the Big Store, recently showed us some samples of corn beef got up in a new style by the famous house of Armour & Co., Chicago. It has an excellent appearance and must soon work its way into popular favor.

READINGS.—Rev. H. G. Parker, of Trenton, will give a series of interesting readings in Rathbun Hall on Tuesday evening July 8th. Deseronto people will thus have an opportunity of hearing this famous elocutionist whose entertainments invariably draw large and enthusiastic audiences.

BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.—The final draft of stations has been confirmed: the following are of local interest, Rev. D. O. Crossley, from Campbellford to Deseronto; Rev. J. C. Ash, as well as will be glad to learn, remains at Shannville, but will give up the full charge of Deseronto to Mr. Crossley. Rev. Jas. Curtis, President of Conference, has been appointed to the Tabernacle, Belleville.

RAILWAY CHANGES.—A new time table came into effect on the Grand Trunk on Sunday. By its first arrangement the night trains calling at Deseronto Junction were cancelled and we were deprived of the mails usually carried by them. The matter being brought to the attention of Mr. Hickson, he immediately gave orders for these trains to stop at the Junction as formerly, and we again enjoy all our former privileges.

R. C. PICNIC.—The Roman Catholic picnic to be held in Black's grove on Dominion day will undoubtedly attract a great multitude of visitors who will have every opportunity afforded them in the way of amusement. There will be athletic sports with suitable prizes; dinner with all the delicacies that can tempt a fastidious appetite will be served on the grounds, and as the trains run at all hours to the grove which is near Deseronto, visitors can do the picnic and take in the general celebration without inconvenience.

CABBAGE WORM.—A gentleman in West Virginia asserts that the following remedy will prove effectual for the cabbage worm. Take green smart weed, or pepper weed, as well known to farmers; dry it thoroughly, so that it can be reduced to powder. Sprinkle over the young plants, or when the worm begins to appear; it will also prevent injury from the little black fleas that sometimes infest the plant. Possibly, if the smart weed was boiled in water, and then sprinkled on the plants, it would serve the same purpose.

DOMINION DAY.—Every one is on the tip toe of expectation about Dominion day. From all sides comes intelligence which leads us to anticipate a great rush of visitors to Deseronto to witness the various attractions of the celebration here on that day. The games and sports promise to be very interesting and in the hands of good committees will be well carried out. The freer display of the minutely magnificent, far-spread toasty libretto shown in Central Ontario. It is thus seen that if the weather proves favorable there must be a pleasant time ahead for all.

ROBBERY.—On Tuesday some tramps were seen lurking near Mr. Mellow's blacksmith shop. On Wednesday morning it was discovered that the door of Mr. A. Carter's wagon shop, which is above Mellow's, had been broken open and several tools, including saws, chisels, screwdrivers, braces carried off. They had also burst into Mr. Mellow's shop and a sledge, cold chisel, pinchers, etc., were missing. It is evident that these are equipped themselves for a regular campaign, and they will be well for the public to exercise the greatest vigilance and be prepared to give the rascals a hot reception.

THE PLAINS.—What a desirable place the plains to the west of Deseronto would be for a grand military camp. There is probably no place in Canada better adapted for such a purpose. All the volunteers of Ontario could be manoeuvred there to the best advantage. Why may not the men for East Hastings agitate the formation of a great provincial camp next year? The place is central and it is time our militia authorities were instituting the custom of instituting a system of great autumn manoeuvres in order to give our citizen soldiers some idea of a real campaign. At present the plains present little that would suggest the pomp and circumstances of war, being covered with herds of cattle and sheep after the manner of some great western cattle ranch.

BIRTHS.

TERRY.—At Deseronto, on the 25th inst., the wife of Mr. Wesley Terry, of a son.

WESE.—At Adolphstown, on the 17th inst., the wife of Mr. Matthew Wese, of a daughter.

The hot weather has not interfered in the least with Coleman's studio where visitors find every day taking advantage of the cheap rates to get their photographs nicely taken. Visitors to Deseronto on Dominion day will no doubt take advantage of the opportunity to get their pictures quickly and neatly taken. Remember the place, Smith's brick block, Main street.

It Saved My Wife's Life.

This is the report of a Princess street gentleman who had the opportunity of testing Polson's Nervine, the great pain cure. He prepared for any emergency by having a bottle of Nervine at hand.
